The Wall Street Journal Ranks Undergraduate Business Program #3
Rutgers Business School - Newark and New Brunswick's undergraduate program in New Brunswick was ranked #3 by The Wall Street Journal for producing the best graduates according to recruiters in a new ranking "The Top 25 Recruiter Picks." Rutgers University was ranked #21 overall.
Read More...

The Wall Street Journal Ranks Rutgers EMBA among 25 "Best Executive MBA Programs"
Rutgers Executive MBA Program is now ranked #21 on the list of Best EMBA programs reported by The Wall Street Journal. Overall rank was based on "how a school scored in a survey of recent EMBA graduates, how it fared in a survey of companies familiar with EMBA programs; and how well it imparted management and leadership skills identified as crucial in the surveys of recent graduates and companies."
Read More...

MBA & GRADUATE ADMISSIONS OPEN HOUSE
October 30, 2010
Think MBA! Think Rutgers MBA! Meet with faculty, staff and students to learn about Rutgers Business School MBA and Graduate programs.
RSVP online | mba.rutgers.edu

Follow RBS: Facebook Twitter

RBS Quick Links
Highlights
Newsletters
Faculty blogs
Follow RBS on Twitter
Research centers
Publicize your event
Submit news item

News
More news at business.rutgers.edu/news

Professor Cheng-Few Lee publishes the "Handbook of Quantitative Finance and Risk Management"

2011 RBS Business Plan Competition Details Announced

Rutgers Entrepreneurial Society brings the "Sexy Side" of Entrepreneurship to Rutgers

Largest Quant class ever kicks off fall semester

The Wall Street Journal ranks Rutgers Executive MBA in top 25

Dean's Advisory Council students coordinate $250,000 donation to Haitian relief efforts

MBA dream completed after eight years, two daughters, and a husband found at Rutgers

Students interested in social entrepreneurship bring Grameen America to Rutgers

Wall Street Journal Ranks Rutgers Business School Undergraduate Business

Thanks to CUEED's efforts, renaissance underway in Newark where entrepreneurs have the neighborhood of Halsey Street thriving

The Center for Urban Entrepreneurship & Economic Development (CUEED) at Rutgers Business School-Newark and New Brunswick teamed up with the city and local businesses to enact an intrepid idea: deploy venture capital, city resources, and university research and expertise to turn Halsey Street into a showcase of what targeted business development within a mile radius of the campus could wrought.
Read more...

"It's a night-and-day difference from two years ago," says dt ogilvie, the founding director of CUEED and associate professor of business strategy at the business school whose research interests address the economic development of the inner city.
Read more...
Top news stories:

1. Wall Street Journal Ranks Rutgers Business School Undergraduate Business Program #3
2. Rutgers Business School offers One-Year MBA track for students with advanced standing
3. MBA program to accept GRE or GMAT scores
4. Wall Street executives rank Rutgers as one of the "Top 10 Quant Schools"
5. Simi Kedia wins "Best Paper" award from prestigious Review of Financial Studies

Program #3

Thanks to CUEED's efforts, renaissance underway in Newark where entrepreneurs have the neighborhood of Halsey Street thriving

Rutgers Business School Professor Honored with Ernst & Young's Inclusive Excellence Award

RBS Professor and PhD student receive 'Best Paper in Ethics Award' at the American Accounting Association Annual Meeting

Highlights of Recent Media Coverage

More coverage at business.rutgers.edu/coverage10

New Needs and Expectations

The Wall Street Journal (New York, NY) - September 30, 2010
Farrokh Langdana has been director of the Executive M.B.A. program at Rutgers Business School for 13 years, but it's only in the last two to three years that he has seen a dramatic shift in the E.M.B.A. landscape. As students foot more of their tuition bill and their jobs become increasingly demanding, the pressures on E.M.B.A. programs to accommodate those changing needs are high. Reporter Jane Porter talked with Mr. Langdana about how students needs and demands are changing and what he is doing to address those challenges.

Group shows creative side of business

The Daily Targum (New Brunswick, NJ) - September 21, 2010
The Rutgers Entrepreneurial Society hosted an event last night to inspire and engage student entrepreneurs at RBS and beyond. The event, "The Sexy Side of Entrepreneurship," was held in the Multipurpose Room of the Rutgers Student Center on the College Avenue campus, providing both student and outside entrepreneurs the chance to show off their business ideas and passion.

NJBiz Top 40 Under 40

NJBiz (Somerset, NJ) - September 21, 2010
Professor Jeff Robinson was featured in the NJBIZ "Top 40 Under 40 List." --See the article "Honoring young leaders in business"
--See Video of Awards Ceremony

UW-Madison students, faculty struggle with plagiarism in Internet era

The Cap Times (Madison, WI) - September 15, 2010
When UW-Madison chemistry lecturer Jeanine Batterton accused 42 students last fall of plagiarism on a written lab assignment in Chem 104, she was floored by the range of "bizarre excuses" offered by the undergraduates. Donald McCabe, professor at Rutgers University and co-founder of the International Center for Academic Integrity, has been researching academic misconduct for 20 years and he says perceptions about what constitutes plagiarism are changing rapidly.

The Top 25 Recruiter Picks

The Wall Street Journal (New York, NY) - September 13, 2010
Rutgers Business School - Newark and New Brunswick's undergraduate program in New Brunswick was ranked #3 by The Wall Street Journal for producing the best graduates according to recruiters in a new ranking "The Top 25 Recruiter Picks." Rutgers University was ranked #21 overall.

Fraternity collects aid for Pakistani relief

Daily Targum (New Brunswick, NJ) - September 2, 2010
Sanket Patel, a Rutgers Business School junior is among one of the brothers of the Delta Epsilon Psi fraternity, the self-proclaimed national South Asian service fraternity, who is spending much of his time away from class this week asking for donations to help the victims of Pakistan's floods. The fraternity set up a table on the ground floor of the Rutgers Student Center on the College Avenue campus with just one thing on it - a big, clear jug stuffed with bills.
The Burning Bush Christian Bookstore, LLC launches E-Commerce Website
PRlog (Trenton, NJ) - August 29, 2010
Ellis J. Still, graduate of the Entrepreneurship Pioneers Initiative at the Center for Urban Entrepreneurship & Economic Development (CUEED) at Rutgers Business School, now the CEO of The Burning Bush Christian Bookstore, LLC (TBB) is excited to announce the launch of their website www.TBBBookstore.com. The website will specialize in books, music, gifts and apparel that encourage, educate, entertain, heal and inspire.

Rutgers Business School Professor Stevie Watson receives Ernst & Young’s Inclusive Award
PRLog (Newark, NJ) - August 26, 2010
Ernst & Young LLP recently announced that Professor Watson of the Rutgers Business School was among five faculty members named as winners of the award, all chosen for their ability to create positive change at their institutions by implementing leadership on diversity councils, supporting diversity faculty, mentorship of students, and the incorporation of diversity and cultural competence into their business school curriculums.

Art Blumenthal Launches New Aftermarket-Specific Business Brokerage Firm
aftermarketNews.com (Malvern, PA) - August 24, 2010
RBS Alumnus '76, Art Blumenthal (MBA), Tire and automotive aftermarket industry veteran has announced the launch of a new aftermarket-specific nationwide business brokerage firm bearing his name. Blumenthal will act as a business intermediary to bring buyers and sellers together and also provide consultative services and exit planning strategies to business owners who might be considering selling in the next one to five years.

Highlights from the 2010 Rutgers Business School India Course
SpokenWord.org - August 16, 2010
Video highlights of the RBS student trip to India, 2010.

Psychometric Scholar Lifetime Achievement Awarded to Professor J. Douglass Carroll
Echoes-Sentinel (Warren Twp.) - August 13, 2010
J. Douglas Carroll, 71, Board of Governors professor of management and psychology at Rutgers Business School, Newark, was given a Lifetime Achievement Award at the 75th anniversary conference of the Psychometric Society, held in July at The University of Georgia in Athens, Georgia. Prior to working at Rutgers, Carroll had spent 25 years working at Bell Labs. One colleague estimated that a quarter of all the submissions to Psychometrika during the seventies and eighties came from Carroll’s work.

Upcoming RBS Events
More events at business.rutgers.edu/events

Rutgers Finance Alumni Network Tailgate
October 16, 2010

Graduate Admissions Information Session
October 19, 2010

Undergraduate Newark New Transfer Student Information Session
October 22, 2010

October Rutgers Finance Alumni Network Event
October 28, 2010
MBA & GRADUATE ADMISSIONS OPEN HOUSE
October 30, 2010

Nonprofit Leadership Certificate Program 2010
November 2, 2010 to November 4, 2010

Rutgers Business School Student Social
November 3, 2010

Undergraduate Newark New Student Information Session
November 5, 2010

Graduate Admissions Information Session
November 8, 2010

CEO Lecture Series presents Joseph P. Pieroni
November 11, 2010

back to top^