Assistant Professor Position in Organizational Behavior

The Department of Management and Global Business at Rutgers Business School – Newark and New Brunswick invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Organizational Behavior (OB) starting in August 2016. We seek candidates who have an active program of research in organizational behavior, who have the potential to be excellent in teaching undergraduate and MBA level courses, especially courses of leadership and teams, who are interested in supervising and working with doctoral students, and who are willing to engage in service activities. All OB-related research methodologies are welcomed. Applicants should have a doctoral degree granted or nearly completed (i.e., ABD).

The Department of Management and Global Business has world-renowned faculty in diverse areas of organizational behavior, business ethics, corporate social responsibility, entrepreneurship, innovation management, international business, organization theory, and strategy. The organizational behavior faculty include Chao Chen, Terri Kurtzberg, Daniel Levin, Neha Shah, Payal Sharma, Oliver Sheldon, Phyllis Siegel, and Danielle Warren. Our group also works with a talented group of PhD students and hosts visiting scholars from around the world. For interested faculty, the business school has a behavioral research laboratory on each campus, with an undergraduate subject pool who participate in experiments both as part of certain courses and for extra credit.

Rutgers Business School is part of Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. Rutgers Business School is located in the New York City metropolitan area and spans campuses in Newark and New Brunswick. We opened a new business school building in Newark in 2009 and in New Brunswick in 2013. Rutgers Business School–Newark and New Brunswick has the leading public MBA program in the New York metropolitan region and the largest doctoral program in any public university in the nation. Faculty members are expected to teach on both Newark and New Brunswick campuses and are assigned an office on either campus depending on needs.

Interested candidates should submit their application online at http://www.business.rutgers.edu/teaching-opportunities/mgb. Application materials include a letter of application, a CV, a brief statement of research and teaching interests, copies of recent articles, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please, also follow the directions on this website for the submission of three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 1st, 2015 and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.
